

Regarding Police Vehicle Pursuits, the Eisenberg study of 1999 concluded that public knowledge of a no-pursuit policy by police may

- A) have no impact on the police or crime fighting
- B) encourage people to flee
- C) decrease the probability of apprehension
- D) result in more serious criminal non-traffic apprehensions
- E) B and C only
- F) none of the above

In Gabrilowitz v. Newman, the majority of courts that have considered whether or not a police officer can be required to take a polygraph exam have held that

- A) the officer can not be required to take the exam
- B) the officer can be required to take the exam
- C) the officer can be required to take the exam if the allegation concerns a "major crime"
- D) none of the above

Regarding inappropriate behavior by the police, it was found that when police use vulgarity or profanity aggressively, it could

- A) lead to greater physical risks for the officer
- B) actually help diffuse the situation
- C) spark the split second syndrome
- D) none of the above

The "disenchantment phase" for police stress for an officer is generally when in an officer's career?

- A) years 6 - 7
- B) years 6 - 13
- C) years 10 - 13
- D) years 1 - 5
- E) years 14 - 20

Trait theory of leadership states that

- A) no one is a born leader, but anyone can learn to be a leader
- B) some people are born leaders and good leaders can be studied for their successful traits
- C) supervisors should be tested for special leadership traits before being promoted
- D) none of the above